1. READING

How much can you learn in a month?

I work for a magazine which was doing an article about language learners. As an experiment, they asked me to learn a completely new language for one month. Then I had to go to the new country and do some 'tests' to see if I could survive in different situations. I decided to learn Polish because my great-grandmother was Polish and I have some relatives there.

I did a one-month intensive course at a language school in England. I thought I was good at languages before I started learning Polish, but now I'm not so sure. I found it extremely difficult. The grammar was really complicated and the words were not like any other language I know so it was very hard to remember them. For example, I thought 'football' was more or less an international word, but in Polish it's piłka nożna. And the pronunciation is unbelievable! Every word is full of z's where you don't expect them, like jeździsz which means 'you go.'

My course finished yesterday and I'm going to Krakow for the weekend to do my tests. A local guide called Kasia is coming with me and is going to give me a mark out of 10.

Now read the statements below and decide if they are true (T) or false (F). (14 points)

1. The magazine found an article about language learners. _____
2. The writer had to do an oral and a written test. _____
3. He learned Polish because his great-grandmother was from Poland. _____
4. He knows Polish very well after one month. _____
5. For him it was difficult to remember new words. _____
